Edinburgh, Thursday, June 12, 1746.

From the London Gazette, June 7.

Florence, May 24. N.S.

THE Courier that arrived here from Vienna on the 20th, brought Orders to the Regency to send to Pisa 1500 Men out of the Regiments of Guards, as many out of the second Regiment, and 800 Horse Militia, a proper Train of Artillery, either to canton or encamp there as the commanding Officer shall judge most proper.

Whitehall, June 4. Yesterday an Express arrived from Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland with the following Intelligence.

St. Augustus, May 27. We arrived here the 24th with Battalions of Foot and the Duke of Kingston's Horse. Royal Highness proposes next Thursday to send Kingston's Battalion half Way to Fort William, to take and secure the Road, and to go thither himself the next Day, and to return the next; and on Saturday that Battalion is to go into Fort William, to relieve the Regiments of Guise's. Lord Loudoun was with his Royal Highness Yesterday, by whom we learn, that having marched with the Highlanders under his Command, and the regular Troops, commanded by Lieutenant Colonel Howard and Major Lockhart, against the Camerons, Macdonalds, who were assembled to the Number 100, for the Security of Lochiel and Barrisdale, they immediately dispersed on the Appearance of his advanced Regiments, Lochiel ordering every one to shift for himself: upon their Dispersion, the Camerons sent a Person to say they might be admitted to bring in their Arms, and submit themselves to the King's Mercy. Lord Loudoun is now gone into Badenoch for two or three Days, to disarm the Rebels there, and it is thought they will immediately submit, as the Macphersons have already great measure done; to Brigadier General Mordaunt, his Passage through their Country to Perth. As the Rebels are at present in a manner dispersed, his Royal Highness does not propose to stay here above a Week longer, except any thing extraordinary should happen, he will march South by the King's Road to Crief.

Admiralty Office, Jan. 7. In Pursuance of his Majesty's Pleasure, the Right Hon. the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty have appointed Richard Lestock, Esq; Admiral of the Blue.

Capt. Rodney, Commander of his Majesty's Ship the Eagle, on the 24th past, fell in with and took, in the Latitude of 49° 30' the Esperance, a Spanish Privateer from St. Sebastians, of 16 Guns and 136 Men, commanded by Don Francisco Bonocelli, and has carried her to Kinsale.

From Wye's Letter, London, June 7.

Yesterday the Question was put in the House of Commons, whether the Report of the Bill for preventing Frauds and Abuses in the Admeasurement of Coals in the City of Westminster be received on Wednesday Fortnight, and pass in the Affirmative, Yeas 43, Noes 21.

Received the Report from the Committee appointed to consider the State of his Majesty's Land Forces and Marines, so far as relates to the Distribution of the Money granted by the Parliament for their Pay, to the Number of effective Men, and the Methods of mustering and recruiting the said Land Forces and Marines. Ordered the said Report to be printed, with the Appendix.

The Talk of a Peace, which has been for some time past, is now ceased; the Plan for the same, we hear, was lately under Consideration of the King and Council, and rejected, it being therein proposed, among other Things, the delivering up of Cape Breton.

'Tis reported that Admiral Lestock will soon sail with a Squadron of Men of War into the Mediterranean.

There is Advice from the American Colonies, that according to Computation, there are upwards of 270 Privateers at Sea from the British Colonies, many of them Vessels of great Force and well mann'd.

From the NATIONAL JOURNAL, June 7.

LONDON, June 7.

By all Accounts of the Battle of Culloden from those of both Sides who seem to be impartial, it is allowed, that the Young Pretender behaved with great Courage and Sedateness: That just before the Battle began, he rode along the Line, and through the Ranks of his Army, encouraging the Men both by his Voice and Action: That in the Engagement he had his Horse shot under him, and his Groom killed, while he was mounting another: That several of the People about him were killed: That he endeavoured to rally his broken Troops, and some of the Clans, and retired in such Order, that the three Squadrons of our Horse sent to pursue them, could make no Impression.

Then with regard to the Troops under his Command, if we consider the Circumstances they were in, we cannot reckon them such Baudists or such Poltroons as they have been represented by the nonsensical Correspondents of our more nonsensical News Papers: They had been for several Weeks without any Pay, and without any Provisions but a scrimp Allowance of Oat Meal, which was the Reason of their being so few in Number, not being much above 5000, and many of these not completely armed: They had the Night before the Action marched 12 Miles, with an Intent to surprize the Duke, and when they found or thought themselves disappointed in that, they had marched as far back again, and being closely followed by the Duke's Army, were obliged to engage in Battle, before they had either Sleep or Refreshment, which was enough to dispirit any Troops in the World: Yet notwithstanding all this, their Front Line, especially their Right, attacked with a Fury next to Madness; but being flanked in their Advance to the Attack by a concealed Battery of six Pieces of Cannon upon the Duke's Left, and received with great Firmness and Intrepidity by our Troops, who kept up their Fire till the Enemy came up to the very Muzzles of their Musquets, and being opposed by fresh Battalions from the Rear, after they had broke through some of these that were in the Front line, they were thrown into Confusion, and at last entirely defeated, with a Slaughter among their Low Country Foot, and the Lookers on, which we cannot at present give a true Account of; for as to the Highlanders most of them retreated in such Order as to prevent their suffering much in the Pursuit.

These are the most impartial Accounts of that important Battle, and the most likely to be true, that we have been hitherto able to collect; and these, surely, will redound much more to the Duke's Honour, and to the Honour of the Troops under his Command, than any of these false and ridiculous Accounts of the Rebels and their Leader, that have been published by our Brethren of the Quill.

It is currently reported, that 13,000 of our Troops, under the Command of General Ligonier, will soon embark, in order to join the Allied Army in Brabant.

It is also reported, that four of the Judges will remain in Town, to assist the Right Hon. the House of Peers, on the Trial of the three North British Lords, that were lately committed to the Tower for High Treason.

From the London Evening Post, June 7.

LONDON, June 7.

The Reports of a PEACE being near at Hand, which were some Time ago so universally spread, were not so void of Foundation as is now given out: For if G——B—— could not have been able to take again the chief Burthen on herself (which before the Victory at C——u was very doubtful) it is highly probable that the Parties more interested would have made their own Conditions. — But now, t'other Trial at the Horns of the Bull, tho' his Neck be grown much stronger than it was this Time Twelvemonths.

Notwithstanding a late malicious Insinuation in one of the publick Papers, that the new Regiments would not be broke at the Expiration of the Term for which they have been, from Time to Time, continued, we have the Pleasure to assure the Publick from the best Authority, that the INTEGRITY of the Administration may be depended upon; as not only All those Regiments will be laid aside, but also that not One of those Noble Lords, who professed from the Beginning that their sole Intention was to serve their COUNTRY and their KING; without any present or future Views of Emolument to themselves, will accept of any Post or Commission in the Army. A noble Resolution! and worthy TRUE PATRIOTS, who scorn to make Advantages of the Distress of their COUNTRY!

We hear that his Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland, has wrote a very elegant Letter to the Right

Hon. the Lord Mayor, acquainting his Lordship, that he had received the 5000 l. appointed by the Committee of the Veteran Scheme, for the Use of the Soldiers who should distinguish themselves most in the Field of Action; and that he intended to dispose of it in the following Manner, viz. 4000 l. to the common Men, and the remaining 1000 l. to the Non-commission'd Officers such as Corporals, &c. if agreeable to his Lordship and the Committee. Upon which his Lordship called the Council, and laid his Letter before them; and they immediately came to a Resolution to return his Royal Highness Thanks for the Honour he had done them.

Upon the Distribution of the Money, every common Soldier will receive about 10s.

Last Wednesday General Gueff, who commanded the Castle of Edinburgh, when besieged by the Rebels, and defended it in so gallant a Manner, came to his Lodgings in Brook-Street, in a Horse Litter, being 86 Years of Age, and very infirm.

An Order is gone to Scotland for two Ships of the Line to sail immediately and join Admiral Martin, who is going in Quest of the Brest Squadron; and two large Ships, with three Tenders, will also sail from Spithead in a few Days, in order to join the said Admiral.

We hear that a fine Monument will be erected at the South End of Westminster Abbey, among the Poets, the Memory of Mr. Thomas Soathern, lately deceased.

The Bishop and Prince of Liege has caused a new warm Representation to be made to the Dyet, on the Subject of the Disorders and Ravages committed by the Body of Imperial Troops, under the Command of General Grune, in their Passage thro' his Territories.

They write from Hambourg, that a Manifesto will be speedily published by the Court of Petersbourg, in reference to its military Preparations at this juncture, well in Justification of the Designs of the Czarina, who are confin'd to promoting the Welfare, and securing the Tranquility of her Subjects, as to refute the ill-grounded Reports published in other Countries on this Occasion.

Some private Letters from the Hague intimate, that the Abbe de la Ville was expected there by the 13th or 14th at farthest, but that he was not to remain long in their Country.

The late Prince of Hesse-Hombourg, who died Governor of Bois-le-duc, was Father of that Prince of the same Name, who a few Years ago made so great a Figure at the Court of Russia, and was Veldt-Marshal General of the Forces of that Empire.

They write from St. Christopher's, that they have as plentiful a Crop as has been known these many Years, but that they are in great want of Ships to bring it to Europe.

Extract of a private Letter from Gosport, June 7.

The Embarkation of the Troops, and the Sailing of the Fleet destined for Cape Breton, seems to be at a Stand, and it seems to be the general Opinion here, that the Season is too far elapsed for such an Expedition.

From the St. James's Evening Post, June 7.

LONDON, June 7.

We hear that there has been for some Days past a Consultation of the Twelve Judges, in relation to their ing commissioned to go to the North, in order to try the Rebels.

And it is said that the Circuits will be postponed 'till September.

By Letters from Portsmouth we learn, that the Embarkation goes on briskly, and that by their Preparations they cannot fail of sailing in a few Days, notwithstanding the Report of the intended Expedition being at a Stand.

The Sarah, Philips, from Swansea to Plymouth, is taken by a French Privateer off that Port.

We learn from the Hague, that the French Party begins to decline daily in Holland, and that the Lords of the Regency seem to depend more and more on the Friendship of his Prussian Majesty, to whose powerful Interposition alone it is imputed, that the French Army did not enter the Territories of the Republick immediately after reducing the famous Citadel of Antwerp.

Thursday his Serene Highness the Prince of Hesse dined with his Majesty at Kensington Palace, and in the Evening went to the Ball at Ranelagh Gardens.

Yesterday his Serene Highness dined with his Grace the Duke of Devonshire, Lord Steward of his Majesty's Household, at his House in Piccadilly.

And this Day his Highness dined with his Grace the Duke of Newcastle, at his Seat at Clermont.

The Emperor and Prince Charles Privateers of Bristol have taken the St Joseph de la Fortune, with another for Hispaniola from Marseilles, and carried them into Jamaica.

His Majesty has been graciously pleased to give 500 Guineas to Capt. Cook, Commander of the Ambuscade Privateer, for his Vigilance in taking a Spanish Ship laden with Warlike Stores, from Ferrol to Scotland, for the use of the Rebels.

His Majesty has also been pleased to give the Sum of 500 Guineas, and a Gold Medal, worth 200 l. to the brave Capt. Philips, who cut the Solebay Man of War out of St. Martin's Harbour, on the Coast of France.

Letters from Barbados mention, that their Apprehensions of a Visit by some Men of War from Old France are vanished, and that one of his Majesty's Ships of 40 Guns has taken to the Windward of Martinico 3 Ships from Bourdeaux, having valuable Effects on board.

Douglafs, Esq; is appointed Quarter-Master and Pay Master to the Highland Regiment now embarking at Portsmouth, commanded by the Lord John Murray.

We hear that a fine Monument will be erected at the South End of Westminster-Abbey, among the Poets, to the Memory of Mr. Thomas Southern, lately deceased.

EDINBURGH, June 12.

His Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland is very soon expected in Town from the Army.

Lord Loudon with his Men was in Strathpey on Sunday last, and we hear a Party of Macleods and Campbells have come the length of Glenesk in the Braes of Angus.

By a Letter from the North there is Advice, that Parties of the Rebels are frequently seen on the Tops of Mountains, but upon the Approach of the King's Troops quite disappear.

The Transports, with the Hessian Troops on board, sailed from the Road of Leith at 5 o'Clock on Tuesday Afternoon, under Convoy of the Gibraltar and Bridgewater Men of War, two 20 Gun Ships, and the Granada Bomb. The Hound Sloop with several Vessels carrying Stores to the Army are clear to sail for the North.

Several Cart Loads of Ammunition for some Days past have been brought up from Leith to the Castle.

Lochziel's House is burnt down to the Ground, and the Garden and Park Dykes demolished.

Yesterday Morning some Officers set out again for the North, to join their respective Regiments.

Perth, 9th June 1746.

This Day, by his Majesty's Order in Council of the 28th of May last, the Magistrates and Counsellors who served in this Burgh for the Year last past, proceeded to the Elections, when the Persons after-named were with great Harmony elected Magistrates, viz. Patrick Crie, Provost; John Robertson of Tullibeltan, Dean of Gild; and Robert Robertson, Thomas Peat, William Gray, and James Cuthbert, Baillies: So that the Government of this Place is happily continued in the Hands of the old Set of loyal Subjects, maugre all Opposition.
